

Etching of 50nm photoresist sample, 100pts per second

The data is shown as lines joining data points. Top line y (proportional to thickness), bottom line x. Fluctuations at the beginning occur while the solution is settling following filling. Note the total thinning time was just over 1s.

